WALL STREET PRICES RALLY

Today

Quite an Earthquake.
Don't Sacrifice Your Stocks.
Russia Means It.
A Million-Year Machine.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.
(Copyright, 1929, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

ANOTHER financial earthquake, and rather severe than Wall Street can sympathize with the Hawaiian Islands, where they recently had 40 earthquakes within two hours.

The violent drop in stock values has nothing whatever to do with the value of properties represented. One or two stocks, for instance, that have dropped in value upwards of $100 a share will, in a few years, sell at a price $500 above the highest price ever reached thus far.

THE trouble is not with American values, but with 20,000,000 gamblers, frightened all at once, throwing their stocks overboard. A cattle stampede is not as dangerous as a gambling stampede.

Some sacrifice their stocks because they must, unable to meet margin calls.

Those that have bought intelligently, and not on a "follow your leader" plan, should, if possible, make the necessary sacrifices and hold on. They will be glad that they did so.

AT THE moment, while the bewildered sheep join in stampede and sacrifice their wool, wise men are picking up what they drop.

Advice isn't of much value in an earthquake.

And unfortunately, it is too late to say, "Don't gamble." The advice for today is, "Don't get panic stricken, and throw good property away, if you can keep it."

THE amusing person at this season is the man who, for some strange reason, has not lost any money in Wall Street. He hastens to tell you about it, and his manner is that of someone who has jinxed something remarkably brilliant.

USSIA's recent executions of men accused of conspiracy against the government now number sixty-three. They include two priests and their assistants and two Jewish diamond merchants, Kleiner and Peitz, convicted of smuggling diamonds out of Soviet Russia.

In Russia it is necessary to live in accordance with the ideas of the Russian government.

FOUR Russians bat flew from Moscow to Seattle, where they were well entertained, flew yesterday from Chicago to Dearborn, ate luncheon and talked with Henry and Edsel Ford.

Russia is grateful to Henry Ford, who has sent engineers to show Russia how to build factories and get production, and was among the first to ship goods to Russia, knowing they would be paid for. They were paid for.

GENERAL ELECTRIC, Gerard Swops, president; Owen D. Young, chairman, early gave the Russians a line of credit even bigger than the Henry Ford line. All of which is intelligent business.

NEW YORK's hospitals own $1,000,000 worth of radium. 16 grams which wouldn't occupy much space on the tip of your finger.

That is a good investment. One million dollars' worth of the finest machinery that men ever made would wear out ten thousand times with that radium still working, sending out the electrons from its millions of atoms at frightful velocity, penetrating and destroying germs of disease, deadly to men without proper precaution.

Freed will be taken to Lisbon this afternoon.

REPORTERS GET JAIL TERM IN LIQUOR EXPOSE

Three Newspaper Men
Refuse to Break
Confidences.

GIVEN 45 DAYS

Evidence Turned Over
To Washington
Grand Jury.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—(INS) — Three reporters for the Washington Times were adjudged guilty of contempt of court and each was sentenced to 45 days in jail today because of their refusal to disclose to a District of Columbia grand jury confidential information they had gathered in a current investigation of Washington's liquor traffic.

Two Special Dry Agents In Jail

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 30.—(INS) — Two special dry agents, who are said to have been working out of a Maumee justice of the peace court, are being held in the county jail here today on federal charges of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition laws.

They are John Dohr and Robert Henning, both of Maumee.

Charges are based on the alleged seizure of a liquor-laden car at Maumee recently, when the men allegedly conspired to keep possession of the cargo.

Scribes Stand on Ethics

The Times has been daily printing an expose of vice conditions in the capital, and the three reporters, Gorman M. Hendricks, John E. Nevin, Jr., and Linton Burkett, have conducted the investigation upon which the articles were based.

All of the evidence gathered by the reporters was turned over to the grand jury, but the district attorney insisted upon the reporters revealing the sources of their information, which they declined to do on the ground of professional ethics.

Justice Peyton Gordon declined to admit them to bail, pending appeal of their sentences, and ordered

PAINTER HELD FOR GRAND JURY

Pleading not guilty to a charge of defrauding Ira Burbick, Sixth street hardware dealer, of $19.75 worth of merchandise, H. J. Freed, Pennsylvania avenue painter, was held for the grand jury under $1,000 bond by Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley today.

A new charge against Freed was filed by W. J. Smith, Market street wall paper dealer, today, who alleged he had been defrauded of $4.32. Glenn Thorn, Pennsylvanian avenue filling station owner, filed a charge yesterday in which he alleged that Freed passed a questionable check for $15 on him a few days ago.

Freed will be taken to Lisbon this afternoon.

NAZARENES HEAR
REV. THEO ELSNER

The world demands a moral testimony as conclusive proof of our Christianity," declared the Rev. Theodore Elsner, Brooklyn evangelist, at the First Nazarene church, St. Clair avenue, last night. Religion void of testimony is like an engine without fire, having form but lacking movement and minus its propelling force." His subject was "Overcoming the World."

Another large crowd was in attendance. Many seekers followed the sermon. The Bethany male quartet of Canton sang three numbers.

Announcement was made that the Rev. Mr. Elsner would speak tonight upon the theme, "Does Your Creed Exceed the Standard of the Devil?"

TWO STREET CARS
Damaged In Blast

NEW ORLEANS, La., Oct. 30.—(INS) — Two passengers were injured early today when two street cars were badly damaged by bomb explosions in a new outbreak of violence in the long trolley strike.

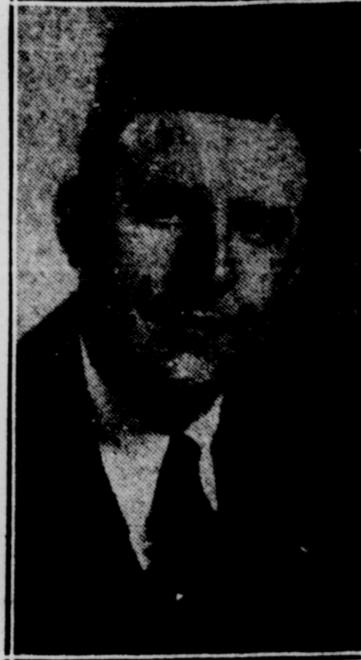

The injured were not seriously hurt, it was said.

They are: O. C. Delaney, Michigan avenue, machinist; Edwin L. Goodwin, West Ninth street, one of the owners of the Goodwin Battery company; Miss Florence Updegraff, West Fourth street, former principal of the local high school; John W. ## RADIO, STEEL, CONSOLIDATED GAS HIGHER Gains Embrace Practically Entire Stock List.

OPTIMISTIC TONE
Suspension of Another Brokerage Firm Announced.

BY JAMES L. KILGALLEN
NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—(INS) — Stock prices rallied at the opening today in the wake of yesterday's hectic 16,410,040-share session.

Ten thousand shares of radio sold at $9, half a point higher. United States Steel, traditional bellwether of the market, opened 3 points higher at 177.

Flood of Messages At White House

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—(INS) — Public and business anxiety over the crash in stocks was reflected today by a flood of telegrams received at the White House, the treasury, the federal reserve board, and other governmental agencies.

Thus far the only step taken by the administration, however, has been to permit Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce to go on the air with a speech extolling the basic soundness of the business structure.

Trading is Terrific.

Twenty thousand shares of Consolidated Gas opened 3-4 higher at 92 1/4.

The rally embraced practically the entire list.

New Haven opened at 92, up 2 1/8; Canadian Pacific 200 1/4, up 3 1/4, and Erie 57 1/8, up 1 7/8.

These gains had a distinctly optimistic effect in the financial district.

Early trading was again in a terrific clip. Huge blocks of stock changed hands. Ten thousand shares of Packard opened at 16 1/8, off 1 1/8; 30,000 shares of Nevada Consolidated 30 1/8, up 1; 10,000 shares of Anaconda Copper unchanged at 85; 10,000 shares of Chrysler preferred at 35, up 1 1/2, and 20,000 shares of American Can at 119 1/2, off 1 1/2.

Ticker Six Minutes Late.

Within 20 minutes after the opening the stock ticker was running six minutes late in reporting sales on the floor of the exchange.

Practically all stocks were displaying a firmer tone in early dealings, reflecting cessation of liquidation and the appearance of widespread buying for investment account.

U. S. Steel continued to climb. Quickly it moved up to 178, then to 180 and at 10:30 a. m. was up to 181 1/2, a 7 1/2 point gain from last night's close. Directors of U.

SCHOOL PUPIL HURT IN FALL

Anna, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Tychonewich, 330 East Ninth street, suffered a broken right wrist and an injury to her right leg when she slipped and fell on the floor of the St. Aloysius Catholic school this morning. The girl is a pupil in the eighth grade. She was taken to the City hospital where injuries were dressed by Dr. C. R. Harrison and then removed to her home.

PILOT BEATS BLIZZARD TO SAVE AIRLINER

Doles Lands Western Express Near Trechado, N. M.

24-HOUR FIGHT

Seizes Break in Storm To Reach Albuquerque.

By LYLE ABBOTT

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 30.—(INS) — Pilot James E. Doles today had beaten a two-day blizzard on the Continental divide of New Mexico to bring the Western Air Express passenger liner into port.

Doles landed his ship with two passengers and two other crew members aboard in a small snow-covered field near Trechado, N. M., Monday to save the ship and five lives.

After more than 24 hours of isolation during which an intensive air and ground search was begun Doles seized a break in the storm to drive the powerful tri-motored ship into the air and land it two hours later at Albuquerque, N. M.

By this feat, Doles kept intact a record for safe flying for his company.

Abandoned House is Refuge

The passengers were Dr. Abram Ward, San Francisco dental surgeon and official of the Commercial Alloys corporation and W. E. Merz, former big league baseball pitcher, now a New York buyer of woolen fabrics.

Doles flew into a blinding snow storm soon after leaving Holbrook on a scheduled hop to Albuquerque en route to Kansas City.

He turned to dodge the storm, and when the storm closed in about him, made what he called a "precautionary landing" in the field.

He was 45 miles from a telephone house.

During a reeling day and night

J. J. Raskob Gets Bargains In Stock

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—(INS) — "My friends and I are all buying stocks. The list is now filled with bargains."

John J. Raskob, political and industrial leader, made this assertion today.

"Nearly all the standard railroad stocks are cheap," he added.

He expressed the opinion that the recent decline will have only a temporary effect on general business conditions.

Raskob declared that prudent investors are now buying stocks in huge quantities and that they "will profit handsomely when this hysteria is over."

Heads of Precinct B Civic league meeting in the East End fire station last night, endorsed the proposed hospital levy and state tax amendment.

It was also voted to name a committee to confer with city council and health board members in the downtown clinic rooms to night on the St. George street-Ohio avenue sewer program.

Unless a called meeting will be necessary regarding the sewer program, it was agreed to adjourn until Tuesday night, Nov. 2, when "Public Funds" will be discussed.

N. Press Kerr, Ernest Simpson and Olen H. Dawson, forming the league's executive committee, were named to meet health board and council representatives.

Harker Pottery Company Thanked.

The Harker Pottery company was given a vote of thanks for its agreement to permit use of a tract near Ohio river as a playground next summer.

Zed Smith, the chairman, called upon representative citizens in attendance for addresses upon the general themes, "Taxation" and "The City Hospital Levy."

Those who spoke were John J. Purinton, president of the First National bank; Donald Thompson, Dr. C. Hodge Bailey, Alvin Purinton, Charles R. Boyce, Dr. R. J. Marshall and T. T. Jones.

Former State Senator Purinton recalled at the outset of his address that he had not discussed the pending question since a debate that he had some years ago with the late D. J. Smith. He pointed out that the present tax system of Ohio was nearly 80 years old.

Forest Love

Thrilling Story of Romance of Modern Girl

By Hazel Livingston

What Has Gone Before.

Nancy Hollenbeck, though young and beautiful, is poor. Her mother, of a socially accepted family, married a poor man. She warns Nancy against this "mistake." Nancy, becoming cynical, gives up handsome Mat Tully and begins an affair with Jack Beamer, married to wealth. He plans to divorce his wife and marry Nancy. On a trip to Yellowstone, Nancy meets Roger Decatur, a ranger, who falls in love with her. Nancy tells him she will only marry for wealth. She prepares to leave the mountain camp and rejoin her Aunt Ellie.

Now Go On With the Story.

CHAPTER XIII.

Nancy did all her packing in a few, wide sweeps, tumbling shoes, dirty riding shirts, and crepe de chine into bags with an abandon that soothed her. Nearly everything was ruined anyway.

She had walked on rocky roads with frail kid slippers, sat on damp, grassy banks in delicate silks, snagged all her chiffon stockings with regal indifference. All to impress Roger Decatur.

"Well, I succeeded, anyway!" she reflected with a certain mournful happiness, stuffing the wreck of the blue organdie into a chink beside a muddy riding boot. "He's in love with me if anyone ever was. And I'm in love with him. Might as well admit it. One more romantic it might have been to cheer me up when I'm an old lady waiting for the butler to bring me my tea. Which is a whole lot better than making your own tea!"

That butler idea helped. This time next year she wouldn't be salvaging old clothes. She would leave them for the maid with a nice apology about the mud: "This little dress is a sight . . . still it was awfully expensive and it will be sweet when it is freshened again. . . . I wonder if you'd care to bother? It should just fit you—" Nancy had long since decided not to be patronizing with servants, like Mama and Mrs. Craig, nor snippy like Aunt Ellie. She would be chummy like Gil Neal's mother, who was so important socially that she could afford to ask about the waiter's wife, and cuddle the wash-lady's baby. . . .

She even whistled, almost contentedly, while she got into her traveling dress, biscuit-colored crepe de chine that wouldn't show the dust, and pulled the wide brown straw hat over her russet waves. But her knees felt weak again when she thought of trying to explain to Roger. Roger wouldn't understand. . . .

She found him by the deserted corral, his graceful body propped against a fence post, blond, uncovered head shining in the sun. The last mule train was just disappearing around the bend.

He was unashamedly relieved to see her. "I didn't know what to think when you didn't show up. I was afraid you were mad—"

His bright blue eyes rested on her with love and longing. "Now that you're here," they said, "nothing mattered—not even missing our ride."

Nancy squirmed. It was going to be even harder than she had thought. "Oh no . . . why should I be angry?" she murmured, avoiding his eyes.

"But no ride today? You're all dressed up! Well, I tell you what, I'll get my car and we'll have a picnic. Maybe I'll do a little fishing—"

"I couldn't, Roger, not today. I wouldn't have time. I just have a few minutes. . . . This is good-bye," she tried to say it lightly. "I've would permit, past swampy meadows yellow with cream cups, over small streams, around fallen timber.

NAMED IN LOBBY

"This isn't a very good road, but it's kind of pretty." His one contribution to conversation.

Nancy had nothing to say, either. She sat bolt upright, a fixed smile curving her red lips, eyes straight ahead.

The family would have known that something was happening to Nancy. Something new and strange, and a little frightening. Her velvety brown eyes, sweet and shallow, had turned dark and faintly startled. Here in the mountains, with the wind whipping her soft hair into tumbled ringlets, and without her accustomed careful make-up, she was younger, more appealing. Her pose was shattered. She wasn't sure of herself any more.

"I shouldn't have come," she was thinking. "It will only make it harder. . . . I shouldn't even have said good-bye. . . . I have the rottenest luck, always liking the strong people. . . . This is worse than any of them . . . a ranger. If I didn't feel so terrible I could laugh . . . losing my head over a ranger, and Jack Beamer counting the minutes until I get back . . . it's so hard . . . I'm such a fool."

He stopped the car in a sandy gully that sloped down to the long river. "Do you want to get out?" She looked down at the lizard skin pumps. Her last decent shoes.

For years to come the faint

How the family would gasp over all the ruined clothes. "Yes—lets. Why think of shoes when you're tasting your last hour of madness, going back in a few short moments to sanity, and a common sense marriage?

Gallantly she stepped into the soft sand, climbed over a boulder, slid down a rocky path.

"Wait—I'll help you!" So, independent to the last, she increased her pace, slithered over some long, lush grass, and sat with more emphasis than she had intended on a grassy shelf, just out of the spray from a miniature Vernal Falls.

Gravely he dropped down beside her, his brown, slender hand covering one of hers.

"See, there are violets here—litde teeny tiny white ones, in the grass!" she cried, just to be saying something.

He looked at her, long and intently, so that her color rose, and she looked away, pretending to watch the falls.

"Help me! Help me!" she formed the words silently, moving her lips, but even as she prayed she knew she was beyond help. Roger Decatur's arms were closing around her. His mouth was on hers.

"I do love you!" she whispered. "I do—I do!" And clung to him, sobbing as she hadn't cried since she was a child. Nancy, who had long since decided love was just one of Mother Nature's tricks, and nothing was worth crying over, anyway.

HASKIN LETTER DAILY

By Frederic J. Haskin

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 30.—One of the principal measures of relief for agriculturists being undertaken by the federal farm board is expected to result in the organization of a super-cooperative association of livestock growers. It is the plan of C. B. Denman, the member of the board appointed by President Hoover, especially to represent the interests of livestock producers.

In fact the super-cooperative planned will be in line with this age of mergers in business for it will be an amalgamation in one giant organization of many cooperatives already organized and operating. There are 28 cattle, sheep, and hog cooperatives east of the Rocky mountains and some additional handling the production of the Pacific coast. These are to be brought together in one general national organization through the operation of which it is expected better prices will be realized by growers bringing them the relief pledged, better distribution through orderly marketing and, finally, more reasonable prices to the consumer.

The livestock grower, Denman finds, suffers chiefly from wide price fluctuations and these are brought about by disorganized marketing. Through lack of concerted action and proper generalship, the terminals frequently are glutted, with consequent fall in price. It is not unusual for a cattle grower, for example, to lose $10,000 in a single day because he has happened to ship to a market which also has been selected by a great many other shippers. Such losses, Denman believes, can be obviated to a large extent by cooperative action. Eighteen per cent of the livestock growers of the country already is in cooperatives. Last year they did a business of $300,000,000. Six hundred thousand individual growers are members. But, under present conditions it is entirely possible for them to compete with each other, large consignments arriving at terminal markets from different cooperatives on the same day and beating down the price through the operation of the inevitable law of supply and demand.

Livestock growers generally, according to Denman, are well pleased with the service they receive at terminals; that is at the various public stockyards, such as the great Chicago stockyards. In general charges for the care and feeding of animals are held reasonable. A great terminal stockyards must be prepared to receive any amount of livestock which happens to come in, be it large or small. Facilities are sufficiently elastic to admit of this. Much as such service is appreciated by the grower, still it does not directly help the price situation. The yards may be crowded for days with consequent dwindling prices and meantime the cattle or hogs are eating up the profits. Under the proposed system there would be no delays. Shipments would go where they could find immediate purchase at the fair price such conditions would beget.

Denman points out that such a method would be to the advantage of growers and stockyard companies and to the packers. Stockyards plants could be operated more economically if the flow of animals were steady and there were no necessity for sudden expansion and contraction of facilities. Packers would find advantage in a stable price for animals and could figure their costs accordingly.

While the super-cooperative planned by Denman would pay particular attention to marketing in such an orderly way as to command the best price, other functions could be commanded. It is recognized that there is a great need for education of live stock growers as well as other agriculturalists and no better medium than a successful cooperative in which the members had confidence could be devised.

Here is one point of peculiar interest. In order to be consistently successful, livestock growers must study the type of animals raised in order to make the most money out of them. Mr. Denman notes out of his own experience and observation that no one uses his muscles any more because this is an electrical and mechanical age. He says that on his own huge ranch he has 2,600 head of horses for use of the cowboys but they are idle. The cowboys all use automobiles; if the ranch owner will not supply them, they will buy them out of their own earnings.

In many other ways relief could be brought to the livestock growers, according to Mr. Denman and he, with the backing of the entire federal farm board, is setting out to accomplish this result.

Buying stocks outright is one thing. Buying stocks on margin is a horse of an entirely different color. In the one case, the buyer is not at the mercy of market fluctuations; in the other, he is.

The average small investor seldom has the means to invest to the extent he desires in stock purchases and hence, in his desire to get rich quickly, buys on margins, and usually loses. He usually finds himself impaled or trampled by the bulls or clawed by the bears. And the sad phase of the thing, he will not learn either by his own experience or that of his friends.

The man of ample means may be justified in doing a bit of stock market gambling occasionally.

But the man of modest means will do far better if he refrains from margin speculation, and invests his savings in a conservative way, in high-class bonds or stocks, government securities or real estate.

Great Leader Dies

The Nation bows its head in sorrow today as tribute is paid at a state funeral in the capitol at Washington to the memory of United States Senator Theodore E. Burton, Ohio's great statesman and scholar, whose life had been spent in the public service.

The world, in a sense, joins with the nation in mourning the death of Mr. Burton who first entered the lower house of congress 40 years ago and served twice in each branch, for he was keenly interested in international problems and made frequent visits to foreign capitals. And, too, he was a champion of the cause of world peace.

Faithfully he had served Cleveland, his home city, as well as his native state. He had declined to become a candidate for governor, and had refused repeated offers to enter the presidential cabinet. Instead he preferred to devote his life to legislative leadership.

Senator Burton was one of the great outstanding figures in public life, and, as President Hoover has said, "he was a true servant of the people, profoundly versed in the history and tradition of our institutions, jealous to preserve their integrity."

The death of Ohio's distinguished son is a national loss.

Margin Gambling

New York advices are to the effect that Wall Street never, in all its history, witnessed a debacle like that of last Thursday, when exchange sales reached 12,894,650 shares with an estimated loss of $5,000,000 of paper profits and the sales on the New York curb market represented 6,184,300 shares. When it is said that the former record of a day's dealings on the exchange of the metropolis was $2,467,400, the violence of the movement to dump stocks may be the better appreciated.

It will be noted that the $5,000,000,000 estimated loss is in paper profits. In other words, the market value of stocks on the New York stock exchange depreciated to that staggering total in a day. The actual cash loss, of course, was not that, but had it been, the price would not have been too high had it carried its lesson.

Buying stocks outright is one thing. Buying stocks on margin is a horse of an entirely different color. In the one case, the buyer is not at the mercy of market fluctuations; in the other, he is. The average small investor seldom has the means to invest to the extent he desires in stock purchases and hence, in his desire to get rich quickly, buys on margins, and usually loses. He usually finds himself impaled or trampled by the bulls or clawed by the bears. And the sad phase of the thing, he will not learn either by his own experience or that of his friends.

The man of ample means may be justified in doing a bit of stock market gambling occasionally. But the man of modest means will do far better if he refrains from margin speculation, and invests his savings in a conservative way, in high-class bonds or stocks, government securities or real estate.

Justice Vindicated

The conviction of Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, for receiving a $100,000 bribe from E. L. Doheny, while he was a trusted government official justifies a new faith in American law. This is the first major conviction in a long series of disappointments in the Teapot Dome oil scandals.

Fall's health is undermined and his condition such as to arouse pity. But it is not an occasion for sentimentality. His offense was committed years ago when he was in perfect health. His present humiliation is the result of his own folly. His age and his health are not important; society is interested only in witnessing the vindication of justice after it had appeared that another blotch was to be added to the one left on the public records by the acquittal of Harry F. Sinclair in the same case a year ago. A great issue was at stake—the issue of whether money and influence can buy and force immunity from the law that has been designed for the control of all.

The confidence of the American people in their courts and the jury system had been shaken. The acquittal of Albert Fall would have come dangerously close to toppling it. But it is restored now in as great part as possible with the knowledge of past failures always disagreeably available.

Albert Fall is the first of all that line of notable men who have held cabinet positions to be convicted in the courts of a crime committed while in office. The supreme court of the United States has characterized him as a "faithless public servant." His shame will be recorded in history. It is a terrible punishment and one which should serve as a warning to others who may be tempted to be a public trust.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre.

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—That two block-long strip of 57th street between Madison and Sixth avenue is becoming New York's rue de la Paix—the de luxe shopping center in fifteen years New York's exclusive shopping area has jumped from 34th to 57th. Real estate men say in 10 more years it will be near 80th street.

White Fifth and Madison avenues are smart they haven't that distance communal efflorescence encompassed on 57th. It was recently broadened and pulses with artistic creations in millinery, jewelry settings, frocks, etc. Sidewalks have been widened and there is the soft rustle of Hispanos and Rolls.

The ballooning of an obscure street into a sudden swankiness is usually the caprice of some freak of fortune. Fifty-seventh street twenty years ago was lined with sombre brown stone fronts. Prices of real estate had sagged and there were no buyers.

Only one home owner there seemed to sense the northward business sweep, then at 34th street, would come that far. He bought strips of decaying houses on both sides of the street in each block and started a further depression of values by renting basements to cheap jin stores and first floors to trade d'hotels.

It was a shrewd move. Frightened realty owners decided to be rid of their property at a sacrifice and he bought them. Then he got rid of riff raff tradesmen to whom he had granted only short leases, and in 15 years is said to have netted a profit of more than fifteen millions.

There are many groups of real estate speculators, backed by the high powered organizations, who are said to be able to depress and increase real estate values in a given neighborhood by manipulation. It generally requires two years, but sometimes it is done in six months.

The first newspaper in New York was the Gazette, a weekly which made its first appearance in 1725. There is still a search for a copy of the first issue. A collector offers $4,000 for it.

One of the finest collections of prints of early New York is owned by Henry L. Doherty, the public utility magnate. In most of them are seen hogs searching for truffles in the public streets—the early Manhattan manner of getting rid of garbage. And all the prowlings seem to be in the throes of maternity.

A tailor declares that many of his impeccably tailored and soap-ed customers buy clothes to match the hair of their dog. Only those chafing a dog in shedding time realize the wisdom of such a purchase.

Tex Rickard's successor as a prize fight promoter has not so far captured the imagination of the sporting crowd. Tex knew how to dramatize himself. His cigar became an epic and his drawl a drama. The wearer of his mantle is William F. Carey, a raw-boned fellow who has knocked about the world as a construction engineer with two companies he heads. He took the presidency of Madison Square Garden solely for relaxation. He loves boxing and the job gives him the intimate touch with it.

More than 200 actresses, according to the tabloids, have been involved in the crime passionale of Broadway. Whenever the fermenting underworld spews up a case involving a woman, she becomes a "promine actress." Yet an investigator finds that only one, Margaret Lawrence—in the past three years had any standing whatever on a speaking stage. The rest, so designated, were night club girls or performers in cafes and burlesques.

There are "croquet clubs" in greater New York although the only one the public sees is in the south end of the sheep meadow in Central Park. It has been in existence 45 years and there is never a seasonable day when it is not in use. And they are not all doddery, either. Alexander Woolcott, Herbert Bayard Swope and Neysa McMein are fervid croquetists.

From New Jersey: A sceptical group of us attended a spiritualist seance last week and saw a puff of something take human shape and walk through a wall. We are going again Saturday night. Will you join us?"

Thanks. But don't count on me: Copyright, 1929, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

RICHARD ARLEN ON STATE BILL

Richard Arlen is wearing a British uniform for the first time since the World war.

During that conflict he was a pilot in the Royal Flying Corps, his aerial work, however, being limited to flying ships from England to the front. He was 17 at that time.

He is wearing the British uniform again, this time that of a captain attached to a company of Egypt's Sudan.

The reason, of course, is motion pictures. The role is the leading one in "The Four Feathers," A. E. W. Mason's outstanding dramatic novel which serves as the material for the Paramount picture at the State theater.

After more than a year in the African wilderness, where they made most of the location scenes of the picture, Ernest B. Schoedsack and Merian C. Cooper, codirectors of "The Four Feathers," returned to Hollywood, where they "shot" the studio sequences.

See the gripping hand-to-hand encounter with the little band of royal troops.

See myriads of baboons fleeing before the terror of a jungle in flames.

See hundreds of ferocious hippos attacking white men and natives in the Rovuma River of Africa's maddening jungle.

See and be gripped by a hundred other sensations such as you never even dreamed could be.

It is a picture supreme! It stuns and stupefies with its sweeping action and thundering thrills.

PIES . . . and 2 Pastry Shortcuts

Canadian Pineapple Pie

These recipes have been tested and approved by cooking authorities. You will get best results by using level measurements and the ingredients specified.

Flakier Pie Crust

with two time-saving suggestions

1/4 cups grated canned pineapple 2 tablespoons Crisco
1/4 teaspoon baking powder 6 to 8 tablespoons cold water
3/4 cup pineapple juice light
1/4 cup orange juice 3/4 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon lemon juice 1/4 cup sugar
2 tablespoons pastry flour

Pie crust made with Crisco is flakier, more tender. Sweeter-tasting, too, because Crisco tastes so sweet and fresh—yes, actually sweet and pure all by itself!

To save time in pie-baking, you can keep this pastry dough, already mixed, in the ice-box for a week and bake a crust just when you need it.

It will stay sweet, because Crisco itself stays sweet. And the thorough chilling will make the crust even flakier than usual.

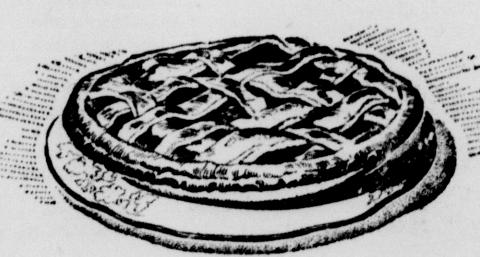

Or you can keep unbaked pastry-shells in the ice-box always ready for use. Then when you want a pie, just put in your filling, pop the pie into the oven and bake.

2 cups flour 3/4 cup Crisco
1/2 teaspoon baking powder 6 to 8 tablespoons cold water
3/4 teaspoon salt

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Cut Crisco in well with two knives. Add water gradually and only enough to hold mixture together. Roll 1/8 inch thick on floured board. For baked shell, take half of recipe and cover inverted pie-plate. Leave enough dough to fold back to make a firm edge. Prick well with fork to prevent bubbles. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) 15 minutes. For two-crust pie, bake at 450° F. for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to moderate (350° F.) and bake until filling is done.

Crisco is the registered trademark of a shortening manufactured by The Procter & Gamble Co.

Criss-Cross Apple Pie

Up in the Kentucky hills is an old hotel famous for its pies. Every day the menu lists three kinds: "Open, criss-cross and covered—all apple."

The criss-cross pie was so different and so good that I brought the recipe home. The pie crust, of course, was Crisco crust. For while their ice supply was uncertain, their pie crusts couldn't be. They knew that Crisco always stood for sweetness and freshness in shortening (and pie crust) no matter where the thermometer stood.

6 large apples sliced thin 1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup brown sugar 1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup granulated sugar nutmeg
1 tablespoon flour 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
(pastry) 2 tablespoons Crisco

Lie pie-plate with pastry. Brush with melted Crisco to prevent soaking. Place a layer of apples in crust, sprinkle with part of mixture of dry ingredients. Dot with bits of Crisco. Proceed with similar layers until crust is filled, ending with sugar mixture and Crisco on top. Cover with narrow pastry strips to form lattice work. Moisten ends of latticed pastry first so they'll stick to lower crust. Follow baking directions for double pie crust in standard pastry recipe.

• • • • • CRISCO was used in the Cooking School recently conducted by this paper

Mrs. Frances Northcross, in the Review Cooking School made a point of modern methods in cooking. Naturally, then, she uses Crisco, the modern shortening. Not only is Crisco easy to use; in addition, it helps you secure better, surer results.

SLOT MACHINES SELLING "FAGS"

VIENNA.—Viennese smokers are at last satisfied with the Austrian state, which has installed ingenious cigarette slot machines at busy city corners.

Tobacco is a state monopoly in Austria, and is sold only in certain shops. Now, Viennese are not obliged any longer to go to these shops, as they can buy their cigarettes at any time on the street by dropping a coin in the automaton, which serves several blends, and can even change and return money.

The Irish Free State censor recently banned the films "Broadway Melody" and "Fox Movietone Pictures" because he believes that some of the players are insufficiently clothed.

Nine-tenths of England's timber supply, worth about $50,000,000 a year, is imported.

FREE COLLECTION OF GARBAGE COST 64 CENTS PER CAPITA

ONE-HALF MILL
LEVY TO MEAN
SMALL OUTLAY

Figures Given by Health Board Chairman.

SUPPORT ASKED

Joseph T. Croxall
Outlines Election Day Proposal.

Free collection of garbage in East Liverpool will cost approximately 64 cents per capita a year should the proposed one-half mill levy be adopted at next Tuesday's election, Joseph T. Croxall, chairman of the board of health, said today in appealing for support of the tax plan.

The one-half mill levy, outside of the 15-cent limitation, will net approximately $16,000, based upon the $32,000,000 tax valuation. This sum, Croxall said, will provide weekly collections of garbage throughout the residential sections and two or three times a week in the business zones.

Means Slash in Bill.

The cost to property owners will be 50 cents a year for each $1,000 property valuation. This means $1.50 a year for property which is valued at $3,000. This figure, board of health officials say, is less than one-fourth of the garbage collection bill of the average family under the present system.

Should the levy receive a majority vote, it is probable that the two-can system, used in Steubenville, will be adopted. By this arrangement each family would be given a disinfected can each week when the filled receptacle is taken away.

Two-can System.

The two-can system, health board officials said, is the most sanitary and eliminates objectionable odors, which usually follow the garbage wagon. Two-deck wagons or trucks, one deck for the loaded cans and the other deck for empties, would be used.

Free collection would be available to residences. A nominal fee would be charged for restaurants, hotels and stores.

Speculation as to Successor. CLEVELAND, Oct. 30.—(INS)— Speculation was rampant in Ohio political circles today as to who will be selected to succeed Senator Theodore E. Burton, who died in Washington Monday night at his post in the nation's capitol.

More than 20 possibilities have been suggested, including four Toledoans, five Republicans from Cincinnati, five Clevelanders and other outstanding Republicans from other parts of the state. Governor Cooper's decision, which will not be announced until after Senator Burton's funeral, will rest largely upon public opinion, it is understood.

List of Possibilities. Among the possibilities suggested for the office are:

Former Congressman Roscoe McCulloch of Canton; Charles L. Knight, Akron newspaper man; James A. White of Columbus, former Anti-Saloon League superintendent of Ohio; William C. Proctor, Cincinnati soap manufacturer; W. F. Wiley, Cincinnati newspaper publisher; Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the house of representatives; Walter F. Brown of Toledo, postmaster general in the Hoover cabinet; Grove Patterson, Toledo newspaper publisher; Marshall Shepp of Toledo; John N. Willys, Toledo manufacturer; former Congressman James T. Berg of Sandusky; Rupert Beet ham, state prohibition administrator of Cadiz; Charles Simeral of Steubenville and Charles R. Frederickson, Coshocton manufacturer.

Donahay Denies Rumors CANTON, Oct. 30.—(INS)— Former Governor Vic Donahay, in an interview here last night, declared that rumors that he would run for the senatorial chair vacated by the death of the late Senator Theodore E. Burton are untrue.

"I am retired from public life and now am enjoying private life," he said.

In reply to the question, "What if the party insists?" Donahay said, "Well, no man is bigger than his party."

Donahay addressed 1,500 people here last night to endorse Herman Witter, former state director of industrial relations, who is running for mayor.

AMBITION GONE-WORK WAS DRUDGERY

Owa-Ton-Na Brings Back Pep and Renewed Energy to Steubenville Resident.

GEORGE FARMER

Every day comes many seekers after health to talk to the laboratory representative located at Carnahan's Drug Store, 114 E. 6th St., East Liverpool, Ohio, who is explaining the merits of this fine old Indian Remedy, Owa-Ton-Na. Among them are many who have tried many different treatments with but little results. Every day brings new stories of how Owa-Ton-Na is working among health seekers in this vicinity.

Mr. George Farmer, 316 Lake Erie St., who for sometime has been suffering a great deal of distress caused by indigestion says that he certainly can recommend Owa-Ton-Na as a fine tonic. He says: "I was always constipated and it seemed that whenever I ate, my food would not agree with me. I would have frequent attacks of indigestion and headaches kept me miserable a great deal of the time."

"Dizzy spells, headaches and backaches gave me no end of trouble. Sometimes my back would feel as though someone had been beating me. Kidney irritation worried me for fear they would lead to more serious trouble. I did not seem to have any energy to do my work. It just seems as though I would have to force myself most of the time. I got to the point where I was in a nervous run down condition and the joints in the different parts of my body started to ache."

"Time after time I tried different treatments and medicines to overcome these conditions but nothing seemed to do me any good. I heard so much about Owa-Ton-Na that I thought perhaps it would help me too since it had helped so many others. Even from the first bottle I could see a change in my condition. My bowels started to function more normally, food did not distress me as much as it did.

WALKER THRASHES HUDKINS IN COAST SCRAP

Eye Closed, Face Seared, Ace Goes Down Fighting

Champion Wins Six Rounds, Challenger One; Mickey Proves Himself Master Boxer and Craftier General.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 30.—Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, successfully defended his title last night by decisively thrashing Ace Hudkins of Nebraska, in all but one of the ten rounds. The challenger was beaten at every angle and only his courage kept him on his feet at the finish.

His nose was askew, one eye closed, blood pouring from nose and mouth and lips swollen, Hudkins kept piling in to the final seconds.

"Come on and fight! Walker!" he would mumble through the swollen bleeding lips. And again he would say: "Is that your hardest punch, Walker?"

Jack Kennedy, referee, said Hudkins had one round, the eighth, three were even and Walker had the other six.

It was in the seventh round that two hard right-hand punches to Walker's chin had the champion staggering, but like the champion that he is, Mickey cut loose in desperation, having Hudkins on the wing at the gong.

From almost every angle Walker proved himself the master boxer, the more adroit ringman, the craftier general and handled himself beautifully in face of a rugged attack.

Fight Results

AT LOS ANGELES, Cal.—Mickey Walker, middleweight champion, defeated Ace Hudkins, Nebraska, (10).

Frankie Campbell, San Francisco light-heavyweight, knocked out Eddie Hertin, Houston, Texas, (2).

AT CHICAGO — Patsy Pollack, Canada, defeated Bobby O'Hara, Chicago, (10).

Tartans Face Sharpe Squad In St. Louis

Battle Washington U. In Inter-sectional Tilt.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 30.—The Carnegie Tech football squad, twenty-five strong, will leave today for St. Louis where they will take on the Tartans.

Miami, too, has easy games ahead of it after the Ohio tilt. It meets Oberlin, Denison and Cincinnati in that order and it should bowl them over.

So, everything hinges on the Miami-Ohio mix-up.

Should Miami win, the standings of the Big Six will be thrown into a muddle, with Ohio university, Miami and Wesleyan as contenders for the first honors, and with the possibility that Wittenberg will enter into the dispute later.

Miami university goes to Athens Saturday with probably the best chance to break the Bobcats' winning streak. Coming out of the Wittenberg game in good condition and with a fine defense perfected to stop the hard driving Ohio backs, the Oxford team ought to give the Bobcats their toughest opposition of the season.

Those who witnessed the Bobcats and battling Bishop's claw at each other, avow that the Athens warriors' victory over Ohio Wesleyan was not a "fluke." Athens earned that win. Ohio U. has one of the strongest football outfits in the state, let alone the Buckeye conference.

"Stop big George Vossler and Miami is stopped," has been the cry heard around the Buckeye state since last year. Did anyone notice that Coach Pittzer kept the husky backfield out of the Wittenberg game except for a few seconds and then that Vossler couldn't smash the Wittenberg line? Miami is not depending on Vossler. Castle, a 135-pound man, was in the big boy's place. And Corry, that kicking halfback of Miami, must be remembered as a potential threat, too.

But that is only one half of the story. What has Ohio? The answer is 11 good men, each of whom is an artist in the pigskin craft. There's Hart, and Gabriel and Kepler, all backfield man, who can buck the forward wall, open field run and pass or do anything humanly possible with that little leather oval.

LANUM ON WAR PATH FOR ILLINI

Jake Lanum, fullback of the University of Illinois football eleven whose great work in the backfield is one reason the Illini seem headed for their third straight Big Ten championship.

English "Hot," Says Lindell, As Glenville Plays Rivals

"Elmo" Outspeeds Field to Pull Down Enemy Headed for Touchdown Run.

Elmer English, former high school athlete, "hot" for Glenville against New River State Saturday on the Glenville (W. Va.) gridiron.

Those are the exact words used by Howard Lindell, also a local high school product who is attending the West Virginia school also.

But "Lindy" writes a good letter: "Did English get hot?" he asks, "And how!"

The first game of the year against Marshall college he started at an end and played rather well but the next game he didn't get in. That was against West Virginia Freshmen. We lost, 13 to 6. (The freshmen haven't lost a game this season).

The third game of the year was at Bluefield and we won it 12-0, but Elmer was unable to make the trip. The last game was against Concord State Normal and we won, 44-6. Elmer played an end and looked pretty nice.

"But today (Saturday) he was not hot! He got in as a halfback, playing left half on defense and right half on offense. He played three quarters of the game. While he was used only occasionally for carrying the ball he made most of the tackles on defense.

"He broke up a pass intended for a man already over the goal line. He also caught a man from behind who had skipped by our safety man. It would have been a touchdown, but Elmer was playing heads-up football and came from the opposite side of the field and after this boy had got past Ratcliffe, our safety, Elmer nailed him.

"We were playing New River State, which had held the U. S. Marines to a 7-0 score. They out-weighted our boys about 20 pounds to the man.

"Elmer, as you know, holds his tongue out when he runs or tackles and today when he nailed a man he bit a chunk out of it and can't eat anything now.

"I forgot to add that the game was a scoreless tie.

"We play Alderson next Saturday at Weston."

In addition to a few other comments, Lindy wishes luck to the high school boys.

The Carnegie grididers went through their paces this week following the strenuous game with Notre Dame Saturday apparently showing no ill effects of the terrible milling. That the Tartans were in fine condition was evidenced by the fact that time was not once called by them because of injuries to any of the players, whereas the Irish had to take time out several times.

The Tartan mentors were extremely pleased with the showing made against Knute Rockne's Ramblers. The team showed marked improvement over the Wash Jeff encounter, and it is felt that the big red team has at last begun to click in promising manner.

For this reason Washington university will be in for a tough assignment and the Tartans will go into the game slight favorites to win.

At the last minute the Tartan mentors are undecided whether to use Dutch Eyth or Harry McCurdy in the quarterback position. The latter was out of the Notre Dame encounter most of the game because of a bad knee, and Eyth performed nobly in directing the team. Both boys are showing improvement in the signal calling job and give promise of ably taking care of the post vacated by the incomparable Farpster, All-American quarterback.

icates the strength of the team.

Mount Union's eleven is conceded to be the best the Methodists have put on the field for some years and has not been defeated in the conference. Both teams will endeavor to uphold the records already established and will use every possible means to add another victory.

Comparison of scores does not mean much because of the variance of the teams played by each side. As to weight there is little difference. It will be the best working machine composed of eleven men that wins. If both squads play up to capacity the game will not be decided until the final shot is fired.

Since the physical condition of the Mount squad is first class, the fans will witness more than ordinary football on Saturday.

Besides the flag raising ceremonies and music by the college band, an 80-piece high school band from New Philadelphia will give a concert between the halves of the game. This organization has been much praised and promises a high class entertainment.

High school students in nearby towns and cities have been invited to attend games at the Mount Union field as guests of the college.

Canton and Struthers high schools are scheduled for free admission to this game and as Saturday is an open date for their home teams, several hundred are expected to attend the Muskingum-Mount fray.

Muskingum has been considered in a class superior to Mount Union and has scheduled with teams of the caliber of Ohio university. The fact that Muskingum won championship honors last year and is one of two schools that have a clear slate so far this season in-

Eli Fans Pin Hopes On 'Albie'

What Will Booth do Against Dartmouth?

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Unless everybody around here is being very reliably misquoted, another poor but honest schoolboy has decided to settle down before it is too late and henceforth intends to be a galloping ghost in a really serious way. They call the young man "Albie" Booth and, a year ago, the only way he could get into the Yale bowl was to play Froshman football, which he did so well that they decided to let him in again this year in order to see what he could do about the varsity. At that time, he was just another name in the college directory.

Today, you can't get your own death notice in the papers until the subject of Albie has been laid bare to the world in full detail. They have compared him to Hinkley, to Thorpe, to Mahan and, in fact, to everybody except Santa Claus. A month ago down in Georgia, he was one nobody among many while Yale was losing to the southern Bulldog; but he went crazy against Brown and the Army and now the photographers and news-scavengers have barely left him enough time to shave in the morning.

Another Grange.

He is, in fact, the first authentic galloping ghost we have had since the original decided to escape the notoriety of the thing by retiring to public life four years ago. This ruse succeeded admirably. Grange had been a most romantic figure as a young man working his way through college. As a professional football player, working his way through box offices, romance ended and reality began. They had seen professional football players before.

Everybody, of course, applauded the gesture or, at least, didn't disapprove of it overtly. In fact, they quite understood his desire to capitalize fame. But, as usual, with understanding came the death of piquancy.

I don't know why this is being written in connection with Albert J. Booth, Jr., known as Little Albie, except that the Booth of today seems to have something in common with the Grange who was a sophomore back at old Illini six years ago. Neither had expected the notoriety that came to them: it was, as a matter of fact, thrust upon them. The principal difference is that the romance that was Grange ended in 1925, while Booth's is just beginning and, for all any one knows, it may live through the years with that of Shevlin, of Hefflinger and of Charley De Saulles.

They left their football on the campus and, in the mellowing of time, it took on a glamor that has been lasting and permanent. Booth, too, can remain the shining knight who played only for college and for honor. He need only resist the perfectly natural desire to capitalize fame and the funny thing about that is that desire might come often and the chance never again.

Moh emotionalism has made him what he is. It may unmake him no later than Saturday afternoon when Yale meets Dartmouth. Everybody will expect Booth to go crazy again. He has been touted into the Hinkey-Thorpe-Mahan role and nothing less than a combination of all three will do. This is asking too much of any man, particularly a 145-pound sophomore who never saw an 80,000 crowd from the other side of the boundary fence until last week.

It is silly, of course, to bring Hinkey's name into it at all. He was a 150-pound end in the days when the spilling of steam-roller interference and the boxing of mastodon-like tackles were problems for 200-pounders. How he did it was a secret that Hinkey carried to his grave. He simply was a a scoreless tie.

MAYS RELEASED

NEW YORK, Oct. 30.—Carl Mays, veteran underhand tosser, has been given his unconditional release by the New York Giants.

great specialist. So was Grange in his particular line.

Booth Must Do It Always.

So, too, were most of the immortals whose fame has carried onward with the years. Thorpe, Mahan, Gipp, Eckersall and a few others were exceptions and, if it is silly to couple Booth's name with theirs, at least one argument can be mentioned in rebuttal: They did everything well and so did Booth—last Saturday.

This fact, unfortunately, represents the difference between lasting and merely effervescent fame. Theirs was attained over a complete career; his in a single football game. Booth must carry on to the end, almost three years away, and having been great once, he cannot afford to be ordinary ever again. Somehow, I do not envy the young man his prospect.

Offensive drill was indulged in by order of Willaman. No active scrimmage took place, in a period of what is known as "tab tackle" when the varsity tried their passing attack against the frosh, but it was sadly lacking in something. Passes fell incomplete much too often. The blocking of the varsity looked good, however.

Nesser Replaces Horn In Buckeye Practices

Willaman Strategy at Work for Pitt Battle; New Halfback Star in Openfield Running.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 30.—New faces appeared in the varsity line up when Ohio State's football squad was given a workout yesterday, and it loomed probable today that Coach Sam Willaman may send a revamped Buckeye eleven against the Pittsburgh Panthers Saturday.

Among them was the physiognomy of Bob Nesser, until now a substitute halfback and a former local high school star. He was in Bob Horn's berth and Horn was confined to the sidelines.
